Autumn Edition 2025 Volume 29

Welcome to ...

AUTUMN FIRES

Robert Louis Stevenson

In the other gardens
And all up in the vale,
From the autumn bonfires
See the smoke trail!

Pleasant summer over,
And all the summer flowers,
The red fire blazes,
The grey smoke towers.

Sing a song of seasons!
Something bright in all!
Flowers in the summer,
Fires in the fall!

“Golden leaves descend, a gentle rain,
Whispering secrets on the wind's refrain.
Sunlight fades, painting skies in hues of fire,
Nature's embrace, a bittersweet desire.”

From Principal's Desk...

Dear Students, Parents, and Faculty, Greetings!

As we move forward into the heart of the academic year, I am reminded of a timeless truth:

“A man who does not plan long ahead will find trouble at his door.”

This ancient wisdom resonates deeply with the journey of education. At Shri Ram Centennial School, we believe that academic excellence is not a matter of chance—it is the result of thoughtful planning, consistent effort, and a clear vision for the future.

In today's fast-paced world, students must learn not only to absorb knowledge but also to anticipate challenges, set goals, and prepare strategically. Whether it's preparing for board examinations, mastering foundational concepts, or exploring new areas of interest, success comes to those who plan ahead and act with purpose.

To our students: let this be a reminder that every assignment completed, every hour spent in study, and every question asked is a step toward your future. Don't wait for opportunity—create it through preparation.

To our parents and teachers: your guidance and encouragement are the pillars that support this journey. Let us continue to nurture a culture of foresight, discipline, and resilience.

Remember...education is not just about today—it's about shaping tomorrow. Let us plan wisely, act diligently, and grow together.

Warm regards,

Principal

Student's Corner

The Art of Being Calm

Life is full of challenges, surprises, and sometimes even troubles. In such moments, the most powerful skill a person can have is the art of being calm. Being calm does not mean ignoring problems. When we are calm, our mind works better. We are able to think clearly, make wise decisions, and avoid mistakes. On the other hand, when we panic or get angry, we often say or do things that we regret later. Calmness helps us control our emotions instead of letting emotions control us.

There are many simple ways to develop calmness. Taking deep breaths, counting slowly, or closing our eyes for a moment can reduce stress. Spending time in nature, listening to soft music, or practicing meditation also brings peace to the mind. In short, calmness is an art that makes life smoother and happier. It gives us strength in hard times and adds beauty to our character. If we learn to stay calm, we can face any problem with courage and wisdom.

Sports in School...

Sports in school are about more than just games or trophies. They help us grow in ways that classrooms cannot. On the playground, we learn teamwork, discipline, and the importance of supporting one another. When we play as a team, we understand that every role is important: the one who scores, the one who defends, and even the one cheering from the side-lines. Winning boosts our confidence, but losing teaches us resilience, patience, and the courage to try again. Sports also create friendships and build trust. They show us that true success comes not just from winning but from how we play the game. The lessons of fair play, unity, and sportsmanship stay with us long after the game ends. In the end, trophies might fade, but the spirit of teamwork lasts a lifetime.

Exams: Stress or Opportunity?

For many students, the word exam feels like a heavy box of burden filled with anxiety, pressure, and endless questions of “Will I do well?” It is normal to feel nervous, but we must remember that exams are not punishments—they are checkpoints. They remind us of how far we have come and where we still need to improve. Exams test our patience, focus, and ability to handle pressure. Every exam gives us a chance to discover our strengths and recognize our weak areas. Success in exams is not just about marks—it lies in the confidence, courage, and determination we gain while preparing for them. So, instead of fearing them, we can see exams as a chance to grow, improve, and discover our true potential. Let us choose courage over fear and view exams as opportunities for learning and self-growth. After all, as Albert Einstein wisely said, “In the middle of every difficulty lies opportunity.”

Key to Success

Failure doesn't mean
you are a failure.

It means
you have not succeeded yet.

Success does not mean
you have won every competition.

It means
you are striving to achieve something new.

Failure doesn't mean
you don't know how to make decisions.

It means
you need to make another decision.

Success doesn't mean
you are superior.

It means
you are perfect in your own way.

Failure doesn't mean
God has abandoned you.

It means
He has a better plan for you.

Success doesn't mean
you are brilliant.

It means
you are better than failure, but not yet the best.

Failure doesn't mean
you will never make it.

It means
it will take a little longer.

Success doesn't mean
you don't have to try anymore.

It means
you have to keep trying until you achieve better results.
